

What is a summary of cover?

It gives you an idea of what your Hiscox insurance policy has to offer and the main facts about the cover, without going into the full terms and conditions, which can be found in your policy document. For more information, consult the policy wording or contact your insurance adviser.

Product name: Hiscox professional indemnity for technology companies [Wording: 6627 WD-TEC-UK-TEC(2)]

Type of insurance: professional indemnity

Underwritten by: Hiscox Underwriting Ltd on behalf of Hiscox Insurance Company Limited

Your professional indemnity cover in a nutshell

Professional indemnity insurance covers you for compensation you have to pay to your clients or any other third parties because of problems with your work, including compensatory damages and claimant's costs awarded against you in relation to a covered claim. We will also pay your legal defence costs incurred with our agreement for covered claims - your policy schedule will state if such costs are included within the limit of indemnity or payable in addition to it.

Your policy may also reimburse you for fees that your client might refuse to pay if we believe this is likely to prevent a future claim against you for a greater amount.

The limit of indemnity you select may be on an any one claim basis or an aggregate basis – your policy schedule will indicate which applies. An 'any one claim' basis means that each individual claim has its own limit of indemnity. Multiple claims arising from the same cause will be treated as a single claim. An 'aggregate' basis means that the limit of indemnity applies to the total of all claims made against you during the period of insurance. On either basis, you will be liable to pay the excess in relation to each claim, which is shown in your policy schedule.

Key benefits: what risks are you protected against?

Cover includes:

- negligence or breach of duty of care: you may fail in a duty of care to your client, perhaps giving incorrect advice or making a mistake in your work;
- your advertising: mistakes such as inadvertently making a statement that you cannot substantiate;
- infringement of intellectual property rights like copyright, trademark, design rights, acts of passing off, misappropriation of formats, slogans, graphic material or artwork;
- defamation (libel and slander);
- breach of contract: claims (including for liquidated damages) brought against you by a client arising from a breach of contract;
- dishonesty of your partners, directors, employees, sub-contractors and outsourcers: claims made against you and your own direct financial losses;
- the cost of restoring or replacing professional documents lost or damaged while in your possession;
- network security and personal data events: claims brought against you for transmission of viruses, denial of service attacks, unauthorised acquisition of personal or confidential corporate data;
- any other civil liability: this means that if a claim or loss occurs because of your business and we haven't specifically excluded it, it's covered.

Significant or unusual exclusions and limitations

- You will normally have to pay an initial contribution towards each claim (the excess). These excesses may vary by your choice of cover or our underwriters' assessment. Your schedule of insurance will show the specific excesses applicable to your policy.
- We only cover activities that you've told us your business does, and that we've agreed to insure.
- We don't pay claims arising from patent infringement or trade secret misappropriation.
- Any acts or omissions you deliberately or recklessly commit, condone or ignore are not covered.
- Claims where you have failed to take all reasonable steps to ensure you have sufficient technical, logistical and financial resources to perform a contract are not covered.
- Claims arising from any design or manufacture by you of any hardware are not covered.
- Any shortcoming in your work or your own loss which you knew about, or ought reasonably to have known about, before the policy started are not covered.
- Cover is restricted to business activities carried out within the geographical limits of the policy as stated in your policy schedule.

In addition to the above, the policy wording contains a number of exclusions which are set out under 'What is not covered', to which you should refer when considering whether or not the policy is suitable for your needs and circumstances.

Your side of the bargain

Remember, your premium and insurance cover will be based specifically on the details you provide to us. Please make sure the information you send us is complete and accurate, and inform us immediately of any changes in circumstances that may affect the services provided by us or the cover provided by your policy. This is particularly important before taking out a policy, but it also applies throughout its life.

In particular, you need to bear in mind the following.

- If you fail to disclose any information which is material to the insurance you could invalidate the policy and claims may not be paid.
- If your policy is on a continuous basis, you must tell us about changes to your circumstances as they happen – this includes your income exceeding the 'maximum allowable' limit. These parameters are contained in the 'duty of disclosure' document which accompanies your policy schedule.
- You must read and check all insurance documents to ensure that you understand the cover, limits and all other terms and conditions that apply.
- Your failure to comply with the terms and conditions of your policy could invalidate it.
- In the event of a claim or loss, you should take note of the required procedures, such as prompt notice to us of anything that is likely to give rise to a claim or loss, as stated in the policy document.
- You must not admit liability in connection with, or make any settlement offer with respect to, any claim without our prior consent.
- As with any insurance, you have an obligation to take reasonable steps to mitigate any loss.

Damage limitation

Whenever you realise a client or any other third party has a problem with your work, even if you disagree with their view, or if you become aware of a problem with your work before your client does, prompt action can stop it getting worse. Let us know as soon as possible. Our experienced and specialist claims team will work with you to resolve your problem, keeping the consequences of valid claims to a minimum and helping to protect your business relationships.

The period of your insurance

Policies can be on a continuous basis which means that cover will continue while you stay within defined parameters and your premium payments are up to date. Our continuous policies do not require annual renewal, meaning you won't need to contact us every year to renew your policy. We will advise you of any changes to your premium or terms which become necessary by giving you at least 30 days' notice.

However, if your policy is not continuous it will usually be for a period of 12 months. Your period of insurance will be stated in your policy schedule.

Cancellation rights

You can cancel your policy at any time by giving us 30 days' notice. You will only be charged for the premiums due up to the date of cancellation (for your time on cover).

Claims service

If a claim is made against you or if a client or any other third party has a problem with your work which may lead to a claim, or if you know of a shortcoming in your work which could lead to a claim against you, you must let us know. Prompt action could minimise or avoid unnecessary cost and distress.

If you need to make a claim, you should contact your insurance adviser immediately. If this is not possible then you can call us directly on 0800 840 2432, Monday to Friday 9.00 am - 5.30 pm, or email liability.claims@hiscox.com.
